With these words the St. Louis Democrat, paper published in a Slave State, concludes its tatement of facts communicated to it by Gov. GRARY, and given to the public in the article which we copy to day. That article, in its language and spirit-in its manly uttorance of the truth in regard to Kansas affairs, and its bold sp peal to the freemen of the North to stand by the Messre. Lax & Co. never had issued at one time interests of Free Labor, shames the miserable doughfaces who persist in misrepresenting the state of things in that invaded, misruled Territory, and in sneering at "bleeding Kansas." Gov. GEARY, a "democrat" through and through, and ready at all times to let democracy run riot, has conceded a hundred times more to the pro-slavery party then was just or right, but has been assailed, abused, spit upon, and almost assassinated, because he was unwilling to yield them everything. , He has at length found himself compelled to resign his post, and the infamous Lecompte is left to do as he pleases. Now, as ever, it is true, that nothing but an overwhelm ing immigration of well-provided settlers from the Free States can save Kansas to Freedom, and, with the spirit of the late decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in our minds, we cannot see how Slavery is to be kept out of the Territory. It may be, indeed, that a Slavery Constitution may be formed; but lot the way be once opened for the freemen of Kansas to vote without being subjected to unlawful tests, and they will sottle the

"The friends of Free Labor in the North must redouble their efforts." Just now, the friends of Free Labor in Wisconsin have a work to do: A Judicial election is at hand, in which the people of this State are to say whether they will re-elect our present Chief Justice, who is on the record as the friend of Free Labor, of equal human rights, of justice to all men-or whether they wi elect Mr. Corners, also represents the Pro-Slitvery party, which ignores human rights, and exalts Slavery. The Spring Elections.—We publish to day the orders of the Common Council, making arrangements for the Judicial and Charter Elections. Of the former, we have Supreme, Circuit. and County Judges to elect, and as to the latter, City Officers, and Ward Officers. The two new wards, the 8th and 9th, elect for the first time. Doubts were suggested yesterday, whether or not the Judicial officers are to be voted for on the same ballot as the City officers, and whether the judges for vacancies are to be, voted for 'ch the same ballot as those for the full terms, and whether the Aldermen for 2 years, go on the some ballot with Aldermen for one year. Col. Gev. John W. Gearr, at Lecompton, on the 4th list, forwarded his resignation of the Governorship of Kansas to the Department at Washington. Having notified Mr. Woodson, Secretary of the Territory, of this fact, and having surrendered to that officer the official control, he, in a few days after, quit the country and dows, it works. he, in a few days after, quit the country and started for the East. He arrived in this city on started for the East. He arrived in this city on Sunday evening, accompanied by his private Sceretary, Dr. Gilion. Yesterday afternoon he called at this office, and in the course of a long conversation gave us a complete history of his administration in Kansas, and more than confirmed all the reports which have reached the public through the Democrat of the outrages of the Pro-Slavery bandies and rebels in that unthe Pro-Slavery bandits and rebels in that un-

The Governor states the cause of his resignation to be, the failure of Ex-President Pierce to fulfil the pledges made at the time of his acceptance of the appointment. The promises of Mr. ance of the appointment. The promises of Mr. Pierce, he saye, were to support him (Geary) with the U.S. army, the militia, and the Treasury if necessary; but instead of receiving this aid either in men or money, from the President, he has paid twelve thousand dollars out of his own pocket for the support of his Administration, and with regard to military support, he has even been refused a detachment of two companies of caveriused a detachment of two companies of caveriuse the support of the supp heistepped out of the back door and rushed to the cars, and started for Batavia. Brown and Kazr, who had cashed one of these drafts for $2, refused a detachment of two companies of cavalry, for which be applied under the most urgent circumstances, and received the haughty answer from the officer in command, that the army of the United States was not employed to protect him. In addition, the Judiciary of the Territory, as well as the military of the Government refused to support him. Judge Lecompte thwarfed him on all occasions, and having the means to execute his judicial decrees, was enabled to overrule him in every important measure. Again, throughout his whole official career, he has been an object of heard on organized and sworn band of conshort time a reply was received from the conduc-He was arrested at the depot on his arrival and conveyed to jail, where he now is. His life thus in constant jcopardy; the judiclary bitterly opposed to him; the military inactive and stubborn, and the government without money or means of any kind, he was necessarily compolled to decline. 1st. From its Geographical position, Portage seems destined to be a place of great Commercial importance; no point in the interior of the State presents half the advantages; here the lumber interests high the advantages; here the lumber of Buffum by Hayes was one of the Korth West culminate, and the trade of the Mississippi pours in a flood-dide; the Wolf. River Pinery will find here a market for its lumber, and the Prairies for a distance around, cohemne it; it has no competitor for its local trade, and is, like to suffer no rivalry; and it already, supports a larger mercantile interest, than any other point of its age or size in the State.

2d. Public Improvements are directing the eye to Portigo, and cannot fall to produce a wondering development; the La Crosse Road is now running two trains a day; the Olicago Road will resch this city, six Madison, within one year;—the Wasterfown Road, via Columbus, (both Lond Grant Roads,) will be here in the same time; and a sister—hat he, limself, was a marked the recognition of the market form the seme time; and a sister—hat he, limself, was a proposed the substained at the half-was of the Wasterfown Road, via Columbus, (both Lond Grant Roads,) will be here in the same time; and a sister—hat he, limself, was a proposed the special point of the Same and the recognition of the Buffur Roads, will be here in the same time; the Half-way House to the Mississippi; the Wasterfown Road, via Columbus, (both Lond Grant Roads,) will be here in the same time; the Half-way House to the Mississippi; the Wasterfown Road, via Columbus, footh Lond Grant Roads, will be here in the same time; the Half-way House to the Mississippi; the Wasterfown Road, via Columbus, footh Lond Grant Roads, will be here in the same time; the Half-way House to the Mississippi; the Waster Governor pledged him, while he need his contained in his own, that he would use all his power to bring his murderer to justice. "I spent," said the Governor, "fire hundred dollars to have his assassin arrested; and I would have spent two thousand to have done so, if it had been necessary." It is well known that the Governor was a spent of his services and have sensely well as DIL in the could for the coul But the Fox and Mississippi River Improvement is after all the great idea that must fix i the destinies of Portage; this immense enterprise had Hayes arrested, but scarcely was he put in prison, whon Lecompt issued a writ of habeas corpus, had bim released, and set at liberty up-on stramball. Hayes is now in Missouri, and is sepoedly to be fluished, and must certainly realize the most sanguine expectations of its friends; $100,000 will be expended at this place, this on strawbail. Hayosis now in Missoun, and is playing the gentleman. The Governor further states that after the release of Hayes, Surveyor General Calhoun took occasion, in a public speech upon the matter, to declare that the discharge of Hayes was perfectly legal, and that it was a mistake to suppose that the territorial laws were enacted for the benefit of any other summer, on the work; two steam Dredges are being built, and will soon be in operation; and the whole line shows evident eigns of a speedy completion. This improvement alone, is worth to Portage as much as all its Railronds. Merchandise, via Green Bay, will be carried at a trifle over the cost of reaching Milwaukee, and

Speaking of the insult offered him, which led to the death of Sherrard; the Gov. gave a detailed account of the transaction, and, the manner in which his assassination had been previously planned. His own firmness, however, prevented its execution. Sherrard, the Governor ously planned. His own firmness, however, prevented its execution. Sherrard, the Governor states, with three others, wayled him in the hall of the Legislature. He discovered them, and knew their purpose, and when Sherrard spoke to him, he made no reply, but passed on, when Sherrard spat upon his back several times. As soon as these facts became known, a public mosting was held, composed principally of Pro-Slavery men, for the purpose of denounting the act. It was at this moeting that Sherrard was shot. When the resolutions were read. Sherrard said When the resolutions were read. Sherrard said that any person who endorsed them "was a liar, a coward and a scoundrel." Mr. Shepperd then arose, and stated that he endorsed them, and was neither a liar, scoundrel nor coward. Sherrard then drew his revolver, and commenced shooting at Sheppard, who received three balls in his body. Ar. S. then snapped a pistol at Shortard, but it falling fire, he rushed upon him and struck him with his weapon. They were separated, and Sherrard then drew another pistol and advanced upon Jones, whom he had previously insulted because he was a member of the Governor's household. Jones, perceiving his danger, drew a pistol in celf-defense; a number of shots were then fired at the same time, and of shots were then fired at the same time, and Sherrard fell. The Governor says that the account of the affair published in the Republican, as furnished by some Mr. Jones, is a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end.

Among other things, the Governor complains most bitterly of the annoyances which he suffered in the obstruction and mutilation of his correspondence. The mail bags, he says, were constantly opened and all communications to and from him systematically overhauled, and. If obfrom him systematically overhauled, and, if ob-jectionable, abstracted. Mr. McClain, Chief Clerk in the Surveyor-General's office, boosted of the fact, and stated that he himself had destroyed and approved two bushels of mail matter.

The above is merely an abstract of the Gover-nor's statements. There are a multisude of in-teresting details which we are compelled to omit.

His private Sceretary, Mr. Ginon, has promised us a full and complete regital of the entire history of the administration, which we shall in due seaion present to our readers.

In view of all these things, and under the operation of the set of the Ruffian Legislature, which provides for the election of delegates to the Contitutional Convention, administered as it will be the dominant faction who hold all the offices, he thinks it inevitable that the slavery Constitution will be established in Kansas. will be established in Kansas.

The Governor is, probably, correct; but, nevertheless, it is one thing to frame a Pro-Slavery instrument, and another to establish the institution de facto, in the Territory. The friends of free labor in the North must redouble their ef-

He was a boarder there, and, no doubt, is affected precisely as Mrs. Adams: A daughter of Senator James is also very sick and under the charge of Dr. Marcy. Dr. Leon has several patients, including a child of the writer, who is very low. That we have all been poisonod by some substance daily administered to us in the food is beyond a question. THE FALSE PREVENCE MARKINGS. - Mr. John THE FALSE PREVENCE MARKILGE.—Mr. John G. Boker has commenced a suit against his excoachman, and would be-son-in-law, John Deau. It is applicated on behalf of himself and his daughter, Marianna Petrinella, interested, to avoid daughter, Marianna Petrinena, interessed, tarboa her alleged marriage with John Dean. Mr. Chas. Edwards has received instructions from Mr. Belevards has received interesting it is a question whether the marriage is valid, when the parties whether the allegance with a lie on their lies. whether the marriage is valid, when the parties ao bafore the clergyman with a lie on their lips.

Mr. Hutfield was told by the coachman Dean, that Miss Boker was a servant girl in a neighboring family; and so the person consented to tie them together in his kitchen. Whereas, had there been no false protences in the case, he never would have married the parties. Miss Marianna Petrinella (such a name is enough to make any girl ridiculously romantic) already begins to see her folly.—Y. Y. Afriror, March 17.

> Henry August, passenger from Toronto, escaped from the first car. The escape of this person was most wonderful, He is a German; and he and the last named passenger were sitting together on the rear seat of the linst passenger car. The moment they heard the first conand be and the last named passenger were siting together on the rear scat of the lirst passenger car. The moment they heard the first concussion, they got up and rushed together to the door, the latter only reached the platform. He jumped off just three feet from the chasm. The other car rushed by him and was gone. He stood for a mement paralysed. He then ran down the hill, and was the means of saving from drowning his companion who was not in time to reach the platform. He dragged him out of a window and comparatively unhant.
> A woman, who lives near the scene of the disaster, and who was the first to witness it, gives some interesting particulars about two children—the Dorles—who so miraculcusives—caped. She rushed down the hill to the cars; indeed the poer woman literally rolled down, for it was so steep and slippery she could not keep her feet; and the first object that met her attention was the poor little girl, about Syears of age, on a cake of ice. The little thing said "ob don't mind me, save my brother;" and tae poor little fellow was at he moment with his chin barely above water, at the top of one of the windows, imploring some one to pull him out. The woman, though the ice was broken for some distance round the car, managed to reach him; and after rescuing him, rushed up the hill with one child in her arms, and got a passenger, who was himself hadly wounded, to carry the girl ou his circumstances surrounding such a scene :

after rescuing him, rushed up the hill with one after rescuing him, rushed up the hill with one child in her arms, and got a passenger, who was himself budly wounded, to carry the girl on his back. She put then to bed; and strange to say, they got up with scarcely a mark. Owen Doyle the uncle of the little girl, saved her by classing her to his broast when he felt the car overturning, and throwing her out of the window after the crash. The little boy felt some one take him in his arms and fail under him, but he knew not whom. It is difficult to conceive a more melanchely spectacle, than to see these two childen looking on the mangled remains of their mother, father, and nearly all who were dear to them.

RECOSSIZING THE DEAD.

Among the most harrowing scenes attending this fearful catastrophe, are the witnessing the unhappy relatives recognizing the mangled remains of husbands, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters. Yesterday morning the wife of Mr. Morley arrived from St. Catharines, to pick out of the many dead, his body. The scene was RECOUSIZING THE DEAD. Morley arrived from St. Cattaines, to seen was of the many dead, his body. The scene was heart-rending as she passed from one dead body to another, all marking death with greater horrors by being more or less mangled. At last one, even more distorted and mangled than the one, even more distorted and mangled than the rest, was come to; and a wild scream but too well told her tale of wos. And in a large storehouse, strewed with dead bodies; and with others going the rounds to made similar heart-reading discoveries, was she left to kneel down and bewail her bersavement. Whilst on one side of the large building a row of hodies were aloued. the large building a row of bodies were placed the large building a tow of bottes were placed, as yet unrecognized, and questions were asked of every new comer, if he or she knew anything of them, a sob or a mean would be heard in another part, indicating that some one had come from a distance and found all her sad expectations realized. Nor was the circumstance less hereowing of pessing the stranger by who, for nons realized. Nor was the circumstance less harrowing, of passing the stranger by, who, far from his home, and far from those who were dreuming of his return, there lay a mangled, unrecognized, unwort victim of a railroad disaster. Here was evidently a poor Irish laborer; his what she could for amusement, not only in public but private. Last evening she gave us Skakos speare's Twelfth Night; and on Monday we have her twelfth and last night. We have some rare louches of art, and some rare touches of nature too-pour exemple.

In the largest, floest dry goods store of this city, is a small, red cheeked young clerk, whose boyish, artless face and manner make him no-tioned by strangers and a pet of the residents—so much as a preface.

Mrs. Kemble, a few days since, walked up to his counter, looked over the siks, and requested some sent to her room for examination; then nquired for silk velvet, he directed her to an other counter. In turning, she went exactly wrong; he touched her upon the shoulder, with "madara." Turning with her most tragic face, n deep tender tones, she exclaimed—

"Do you intend to insult me?" "Do you intend to insuit me?"
The poor boy lost his red cheeks and tongue on the insuit. She walked out.
Two days later, she walked in again; inquired for one of the firm; one came forward—
"Two days since I ordered some silks to be sent to my room for examination; why they not sent?" she infuriately demanded, consequence, madam, of the manner in which you left the store," he said in his usual quiet, coided tone.

"I presume, you will allow me to purchase a dress at your store," she said sarcastically.

"Certainly, madam, I am happy to see you here again, for I wish to say to you that you are enlirely mistaken in the character of our store and of the clerk. He is my nephew, and would not be rude to a lady, for the world."

"None the less: he grossly insuited me, "None the less: he grossly insuited me, and besides that he would show me nothing

TERRIBLE CASUALTE.—We learn that as the passanger train over the Chicago Branch of the Illinois Central Railroad was approaching this city about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when near Cleaverville, and running at the rate of about fifteen miles an hour, the engineer, named Shannon, stepped forward along the side of his machine for some purpose, when he was unfortunately thrown upon the track, by coming in contact with a fence which there approaches closely the line of the road, and the whole train passed over him, killing him instantly and learing him a crushed and mangled mass between passed over him, knime him instantly and lear-ing him a crushed and mangled mass between the rails. There were three passenger cars and the brakes of each came successively in contact with the body, dragging it many feet after life must have become extinct.— Ohicago Dem. Press March 20:
